Humility

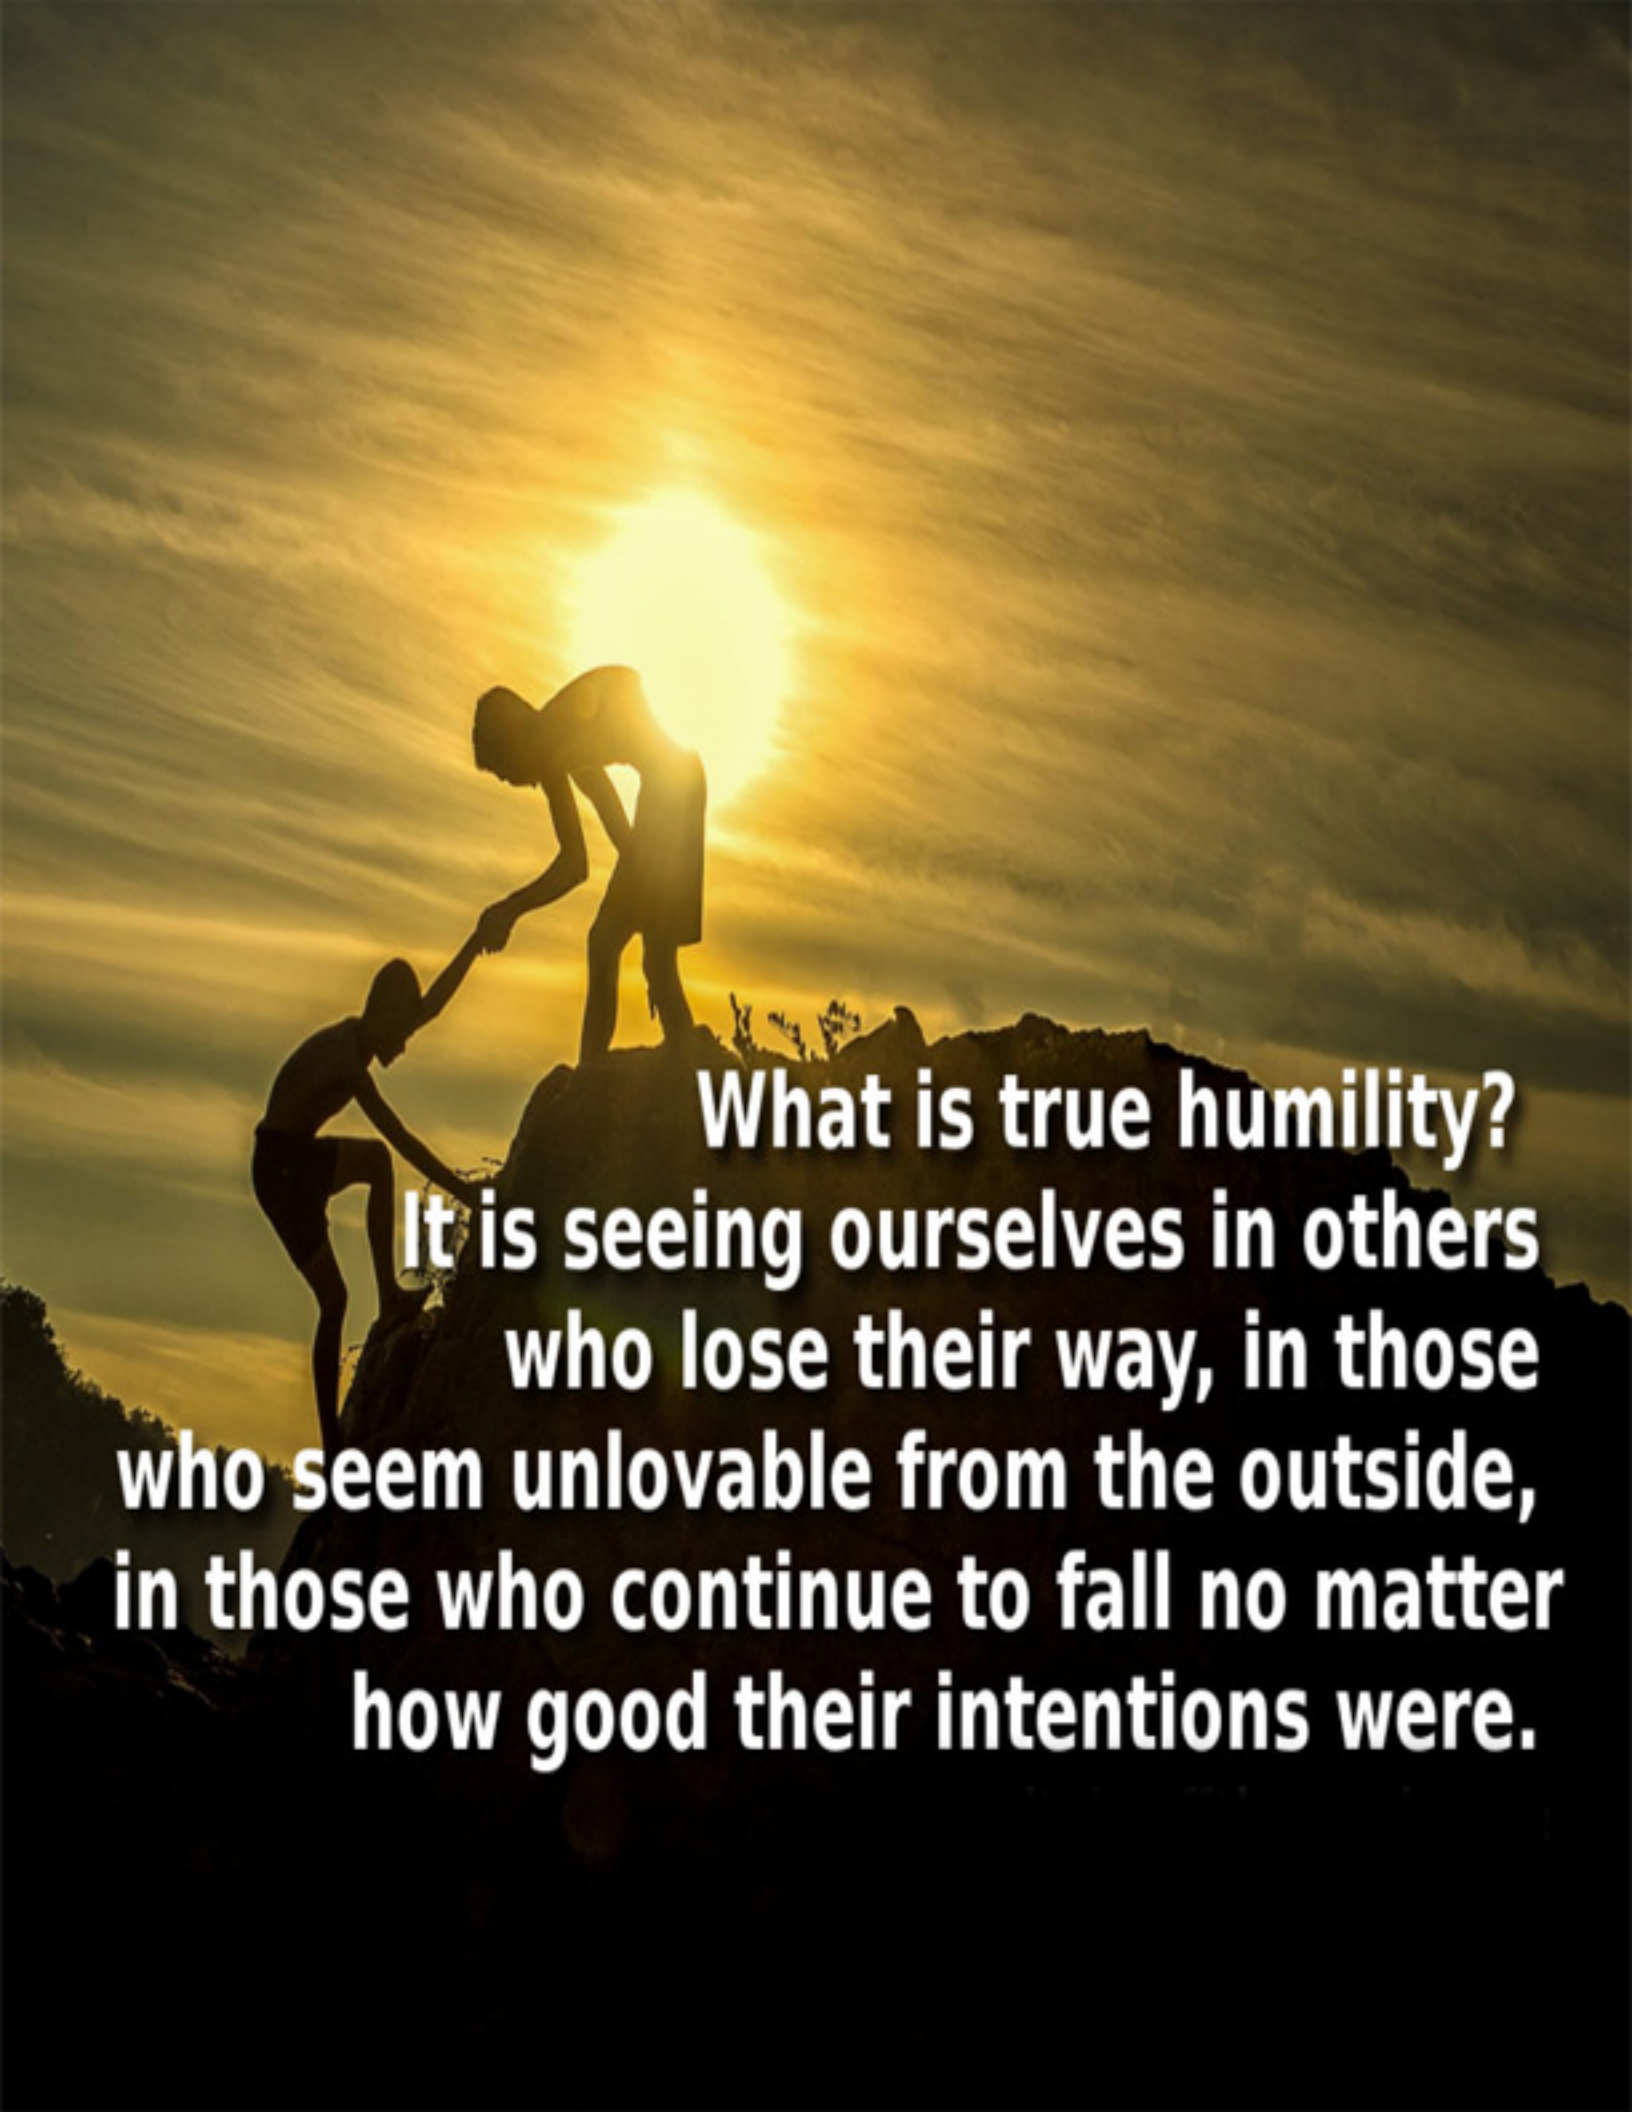

humility, n.
/hjuː'mɪlɪtɪ/

the quality of not thinking that you are better than other people

Humility

is not thinking less of yourself
but thinking of yourself less

- CS Lewis

What is true humility?
It is seeing ourselves in others who lose their way, in those who seem unlovable from the outside,
in those who continue to fall no matter
how good their intentions were.

A scenic photograph of a beach at sunset. The sun is a bright orange orb on the horizon, casting a long, shimmering reflection across the turquoise water and onto the wet sand. The sky is a deep blue with scattered white clouds. The waves are gentle, with white foam washing onto the shore.

True humility is staying teachable regardless of how much you know

A photograph of a sunset over the ocean. The sky is a gradient of orange and yellow, with the sun just below the horizon. The ocean is dark blue with white-capped waves in the foreground. The text is centered in the upper half of the image.

True humility is not in the absence of confidence
but strength restrained.

Humility is not denying your strengths, humility is being honest about your weaknesses.

Pride is concerned with who is right. Humility is concerned with what is right.

Humility is born of the spirit,
humiliation of the ego.

A dramatic sunset over the ocean. The sky is filled with golden, textured clouds, and the sun is low on the horizon, creating a bright glow. In the foreground, a large, dark wave is breaking, with white foam visible. The overall scene is serene and majestic.

Humility
is a strange thing ~
the minute you think
you've got it,
you've lost it.

A REALLY HUMBLE MAN...
WILL NOT BE THINKING ABOUT

HUMILITY

HE WILL NOT BE THINKING ABOUT HIMSELF AT ALL.

C.S. LEWIS

Humility, I have learned, must never be confused with meekness. Humility is being open to the ideas of others.
